Seattle Store Develops NEW STEREO CABINETS

"Space-mates"

is the name given to the new stereo cabinets developed by Electronic Specialties, Seattle Hi-Fi and sound dealer at 2121 2nd Ave.

The name is aptly applied, because these cabinets are space savers, taking no extra space in the living room. They merely replace the tables that people usually have at each end of the davenport. In this location they give ideal separation for stereo.

Walter Law, manager of the Sound and Hi-Fi store, mentions that it is only coincidental that the name fits in with the Space Age and Century 21.

The "Space-Mate" cabinets can be used as equipment cabinets only, or for speaker cabinets or they will enclose the complete stereo and multiplex system with adequate space for amplifiers, tuner, record player, tape deck and 12-inch speaker systems.

For those wanting 3rd channel speaker, the "Spacemiser" is available. Being only 4 inches in depth, it is out of sight under or behind the davenport. It comes complete with a 12-inch speaker.

Developed after a survey of many home-makers, the "Space-Mates" were patterned to add to any decor. Well-proportioned, they will be available in many finishes, or unfinished so that Mrs. Housewife can have them finished to match any unusual furniture finishes. Complete stereo systems in these cabinets can be bought for as little as $299, Mr. Law states.

The sliding lid on one of the cabinets covers the record changer. The sliding lid on the other covers the tape deck, if one is desired. If a tape deck is not used, the space may be utilized for record storage, etc. Doors are optional to cover the tuner and amplifier compartments for those who want no mechanical look in the living room at all.

In this case the appearance is just of fine furniture, such as one would buy at the best furniture stores without regard to Hi-Fi components.

While these tables were designed for our own exciting customers, Mr. Law stated that they will be available thru your favorite Hi-Fi dealer.

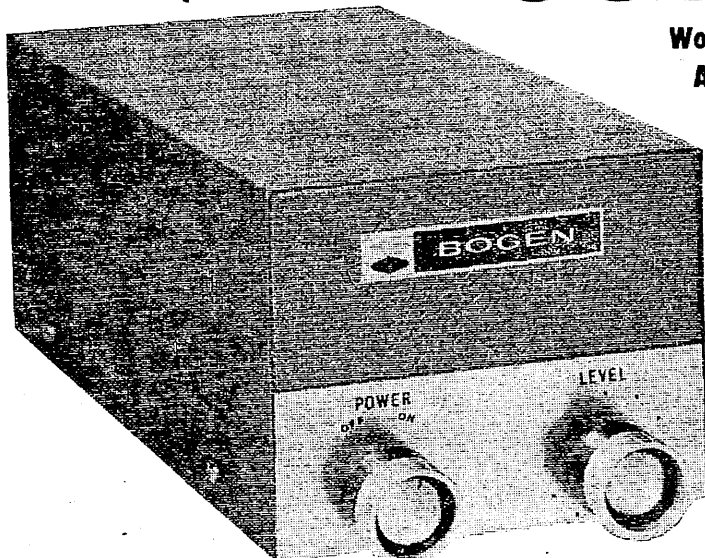

A Washington product, manufactured in Seattle, this outstanding cabinetry merits the consideration of anyone planning a stereo system.
