

Acting Athletes

HERE NOVEMBER 13: John Sayre, left, and Rusty Wailes, Seattleites who won Gold Medals at Rome in 1960 as representatives of the Lake Washington Rowing Club in the Olympic Games, play featured roles in a musical fantasy, "Space Is So Startling," which will be presented November 13 at the Opera House. Sayre rowed stroke at the University of Washington; Wailes captained the Yale crew. The touring musical was produced by Moral Re-Armament.

AT MUSIC BOX: Shirley MacLaine stars in "Irma La Duce," film comedy at The Music Box.

Ex-Seattleite Touring With Bolshoi Stars

Dolores Loeb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Vinikow of Seattle, will play principal horn when the touring stars of the Bolshoi Ballet appear at the Opera House November 8 and 9.

Mrs. Loeb attended Queen Anne High School and the University of Washington. She played horn with several Seattle orchestras, including the Youth Symphony and Thalia.

She has been living in New York with her husband, Fred Loeb, who also is traveling with the Bolshoi troupe as clarinetist.

TMS-2 STEREO SPEAKER

Undoubtedly, you've heard that the speaker systems in a stereo installation should be placed about six to eight feet apart. That's true . . . for conventional speakers that face forward and project the sound directly in to the listening area. But the TMS-2 operates on entirely different principles . . . those of the concert hall itself, where up to 90% of the sound you hear is actually reflected from the surrounding walls.
